Local band Monika Sex, whose debut disk 'Wounds and Kisses' went nearly gold, is a weird mixture of care and cynicism.

By Emily Hauser

Their own producer felt the need to give the members of the band a talking to about their 'rock star' attitude.

The two faces of Monika

It's hard to know how to take the members of Monika Sex: They are either tough guys acting nice, or nice guys talking tough.

Gathered at a pub on Tel Aviv's Allenby Street, they chain-smoke, but drink tea with mint. The four band members alternate between cynicism and thoughtfulness. They took their name from the bassist of long-defunct local punk band Killer Lohet, but play music which remains firmly within the pop-rock mainstream.

Frontman Yael Sobol flashes a sweet smile and says politely that he's "quite harsh by nature." This dichotomy is also characteristic of the band's creative efforts.

Monika Sex was formed in 1992 by songwriter/lead vocalist Sobol (son of playwright Yehoshua Sobol), drummer Shinar Even-Tzur, Peter Roth on guitar and Yossi Hamami on bass.

While its lyrics tend to be pensive and melancholy, its music leans toward the boisterous.

The four, all in their early 20s, dress the part: messy ponytails, earrings and jeans accessorized with attitude. Their debut effort, Petzalm Veneshikot ('Wounds and Kisses'), on the Hed Artzi label, is nearly a gold album (20,000 sold), and their songs have reportedly gotten the message. The word around the business: says that the four men, very young to have become so successful so fast, have begun to act like rock stars.

The gossip worried their producer, Jeremy Kaplan, a veteran figure on the local rock scene, who spoke to the boys about their attitude. "They have the talent to overcome this," he says. "And I would hope that they have whatever quality you need in your head to keep your feet on the ground."

Kaplan, 33, sees himself as "a nice big brother" to Sobol, Even-Tzur, Roth and Hamami.

Attitude or no, the four are accomplished musicians and play together as a tight, cohesive unit. This is largely a result of the two years they spent playing dead-end towns and near-empty halls before they even walked into a recording studio.

"It's a matter of being broken in; we had already played together a long time," Roth says.

They also credit Kaplan with helping them polish their skills. As producer of Petzalm Veneshikot, he took each of the band members aside and helped shake sloppy habits. "I think I helped them to pull the CD together without anyone feeling that his creativity was being compromised," Kaplan says.

Jeremy put a lot of emphasis on everything, every note having its own place and not coming at the expense of something else," Sobol says. The combination of the musicians' skills and their producer's sense of balance is heard in the CD's subtlety and integration — rare characteristics in local rock.

While it is clear that Sobol is the man with the mike, it is equally clear that this is a band in the dictionary sense of the term: a company of persons united for a common purpose.

"We're a real band; that's all there is to it," Even-Tzur says, somewhat sharply.

A QUESTION about musical influences becomes a round-table discussion, and the band members suddenly realize that they've never talked about the impact local rock has had on them. Hamami says he's never listened to Israeli music, preferring jazz and fusion. Roth says rock here is a local interpretation of international trends. "Every single one of Meahine's albums was inspired by something else."

The outside influences have played a part in making Petzalm Veneshikot a multifaceted debut. It's difficult to define one distinct musical direction from the disc, but easy to hear many different elements of classic rock 'n' roll.

"Har Shel Beigalach" (Mountain of Bageles) is a bow in the direction of Jimi Hendrix. "Hi Nas'a LeSan Jose" (She Went to San Jose) takes cues from the Kinks and the Beatles alike. Sobol's delivery, half-singing, half-oratory, is reminiscent of Lou Reed. And there is at least one Israeli whose work has left a mark: Kaplan's distinctive style is heard throughout the CD's 13 songs.

The band experiments with all of these inspirations, playing them off each other, throwing in its own personality and changing tones and moods.

THE FOUR say they work hard to achieve a sound in which the music and lyrics support, rather than drown out, each other. The words of rock do not ever stand on their own two feet, Sobol says. "They are inseparable from the music.... Rock is not poetry."

For example, the music to the song "Kol HaHevra" (The Whole Gang) — a diaphanous layering of guitar strumming and plucking, light bass lines and understated drumming — complements Sobol's stinging critique of a society in which a girl can be brutally gang-raped and her attackers let off with a slap on the wrist.

In concert, this leads to the revolutionary sight of a club full of young, off-duty soldiers singing along with the lines: "The whole gang went through you/As if you were public property/But they're not the type that go to jail/They're the type that go into combat units."

(Indeed, the tough young men of Monika Sex recently played at a Tel Aviv Rape Crisis Center benefit. Asked why, Even-Tzur is offended, as if it had been suggested that the band's philanthropic motives were not obvious.)

The irony with which Sobol writes is a key element in the band's sound. Most of his lyrics refer to failed love, and he seems to be able to both mourn and admit how clichéd his mourning is at the same time. If you're going to sing about "the leftovers of innocence/packed away in cardboard boxes" and not sound sappy, you have to give the line bite, Sobol does.

This twist in Sobol's lyrics has sometimes been mistaken for indifference, a misunderstanding with which he takes issue. "If I were indifferent, I wouldn't write words," he says, a little grandly. He feels that his approach to emotion is particularly masculine, and recalls that his style changed when he undertook some time ago to write lyrics to be sung by a woman. "I found myself expressing much more feeling."

By sharp contrast, the sequel, Under the Domim Tree, which premiered locally at the Jerusalem Film Festival and opened nationwide this week, was inspired by the happiness and feelings of relief that surged through her in 1991 after the Gulf war ended.

She gestures at a bay window that overlooks the Tel Aviv harbor. "I took off the plastic, and it was a revelation — Wow, there's the sea again! I was so relaxed, I had been in terror during the Gulf war and suddenly I was relaxed and calm, and so I just sat down at the table to write."

DOMIM TREE portrays a happier time of life for Aviya. Almagor's autobiographical protagonist, Aviya, is living in a youth village modeled on Hadassim, which was founded by educators as a home for orphans of the Holocaust.

Aviya, like Almagor, is the only sabra among her group of displaced European orphans. She watches them try to put down roots, parentless in a new land with

Once more, with feeling

In this scene from 'Under the Domim Tree,' Aviya (Kalpo Cohen) visits her mother (Almagor) in a mental institution. The film was premiered at Cannes.

Gila Almagor revived her flagging career — and spirits — with 'The Summer of Aviya,' a film about her childhood. The sequel, a happier tale, opened nationwide this week.

By Allison Kaplan Sommer

a new culture, depending on one another for support. Almagor says her time at Hadassim was transforming.

"Hadassim was the best home I ever had until I built my own home. I was there less than two years; I came there when I was 14 and I left when I was 15 1/2. But the time I spent there was so good, and the experience was dominant in my development. I think that the meeting between myself and the Holocaust-survivor children was so important because it put everything into proportion."

"Until I came to Hadassim, I thought I was the most miserable poor victim in the world. And even though they hardly spoke about their experiences, I knew what I had been through and I had to ask myself: 'Am I really so poor, am I really so miserable? Look at what they are dealing with.'"

Under the Domim Tree is not the acting tour de force for Almagor that The Summer of Aviya was. In Aviya, Almagor's portrayal of her mother won international acclaim. She reprises the role in the sequel, but basically in a one-scene cameo, when Aviya visits her mother in a mental institution.

Behind the scenes, Almagor was deeply involved in every aspect of the movie. As in The Summer of Aviya, she cowrote and coproduced the film. In Domim, she took on a new role — casting director.

"The casting took a year. This is what happens when you make a film in which a crazy person like me knows exactly what kind of faces she wants to see on the screen," she says.

The role of 15-year-old Aviya is played again by Kalpo Cohen, the talented young actress who acted the part in the earlier film.

Almagor traveled across the country to cast the adolescent Holocaust survivors. Originally, she thought all of the cast members would be new immigrants from the former Soviet Union, but ended up with a substantial number of sabras, all of whom had to be tutored in Polish and other Eastern European accents.

"I had to teach them all to roll their R's. East European style. Funny, it was easier to do with the Israelis than with the immigrants, because the immigrants had worked so hard to lose their accent in Hebrew. With the Russians, I had to make them speak Russian and then listen to themselves to get them to speak Hebrew with the proper accent."

IF STUDYING at Hadassim was the turning point in Almagor's childhood, writing, producing and acting in The Summer of Aviya turned her career around as an adult.

It is hard to believe her career needed any help.

She has been a household name for decades, both as a result of her accomplishments and as half of one of the high-profile couples in show business — her husband is Yehonatan Spector, a radio interviewer and a pioneer of theater here, who recently took the helm at Habimah.

In the 1960s and into the '70s, Almagor's face was a feature of virtually every film made here.

"I played all the beautiful sexy girls and all the dumb roles they gave me, and I worked hard to get rid of this stigma and be considered a very serious actress."

She was also successful on stage. But she was a freelancer at a time when most actors were attached to the repertory company of a single theater. Almagor was dependent on a steady stream of telephone calls for work.

Suddenly, either because of her age or because "they were tired of seeing my face," the telephone stopped ringing in the early 1980s.

Instead of being courted by top directors, she found herself chasing them for a chance to audition for a theater role or a cameo spot in a film.

"In 1986, when I wrote The Summer of Aviya, it was the worst. It felt so cruel and so unfair," she recalls.

Almagor credits that. In addition to making the film, Almagor turned the book — which has been translated into 10 languages — into a one-woman play that had 600 performances in its first run. She has also translated the play and taken it abroad. In October, in what she feels will be a "closing of a circle," Almagor will take the play to the town in Germany where her father was born.

Almagor credits Aviya with "opening the world to me." She has not only attended the film festival in which her movies were screened, since Aviya, she has been invited to participate in various festivals as a jury member.

This spring, she premiered Under the Domim Tree at Cannes.

"It was a virgin. From the oven, I took it to the festival. Screening it there was such an experience. People came to me and said, 'I'm not Jewish and I'm crying, I'm crying from this.' As if they needed to apologize for getting emotional over such a film if you're not Jewish."

Almagor has not stopped acting. After her crisis in the 1980s, she has a deep appreciation for the offers that now pour in from leading directors.

Since Aviya, she played to acclaim as the world-weary bar owner in Life According to Agia, directed by Assi Dayan. In Sh'tur, she was the only Ashkenazi actor in an all-Moroccan cast. Almagor also has a leading role in another film that premiered at the Jerusalem Film Festival, Lelasedeh.

In the theater, she is about to begin rehearsals for Ghost at Habimah.

"Last year, when Gary Biliu was still at Habimah [before her husband Agmon took over], we met. He invited me to do Ghost by Ibsen, or Madea, or Sweet Bird of Youth. I burst into tears during this meeting. I cannot explain why. He said he couldn't understand my reaction."

"I think I cried because being a freelancer, not a member of any company, I realized that they would not make these offers unless they want me terribly. For me, that was like a dream come true."

Adina Hoffman

***** THE ADVENTURES OF PRIS-CILLA, QUEEN OF THE DESERT - Stephen Elliot's film is a delightful chronicle of a gay Sydney cabaret act's journey across the Australian wilderness. As the dignified transsexual Bernice, Terence Stamp manages to endow even impending seediness with a kind of aristocratic grace. He also looks good in lipstick. (English dialogue, Hebrew subtitles. Not recommended for children.)

*** BEFORE SUNRISE - Two beautiful strangers meet on a train from Budapest. He's American and must catch a plane for home at dawn; she's French and heading back to her studies at the Sorbonne. On a whim, he persuades her to disembark in Vienna and spend the night wandering with him throughout the stately city. Ethan Hawke and Julie Delpy are the modern sweethearts. (English dialogue, Hebrew subtitles. Not recommended for children.)

*** BLUE SKY - There's an inevitable quality to Jessica Lange's great performance as a frustrated army wife in the late Tony Richardson's final film. Part Blanche Dubois, part Marilyn Monroe, Lange's Carley is always on the edge of some hot emotion. While her frequent outbursts and the flirtatious apologies that invariably follow dictate the film's manic shape, it's really her husband's (Tommy Lee Jones's) silent suffering over time that gives the picture weight. (English dialogue, Hebrew subtitles. Children under 17 not admitted without an adult.)

*** BOYS ON THE SIDE - Three pretty women (Whoopi Goldberg, Mary-Louise Parker and Drew Barrymore) drive across the country. Along the way they laugh, hug, cry, reveal their deepest hopes and fears and paint each other's toenails. (English dialogue, Hebrew subtitles. Parental guidance strongly suggested.)

Primalogist Peter Elliot (Dylan Walsh) is the guardian of Amy, a remarkable gorilla he decides must be returned to her jungle home in 'Congo,' which opens nationwide this week. (MERRICK MORTON)

SION - In 1951, Anthony Asquith directed the first screen adaptation of Terence Rattigan's measured classroom tragedy about a much-deplored classics teacher whose marriage and career have long ago collapsed. Mike Figgis's surprisingly successful remake stars Albert Finney and Grete Scacchi as the Crocker-Harrises. (English dialogue, Hebrew subtitles. Parental guidance suggested.)

*** BULLETS OVER BROADWAY - John Cusack stars as an idealistic young playwright whose latest masterpiece finds an unlikely backer in a mobster, who wants his whiny, chorus girl squeeze to play Broadway. Bullets is Woody Allen's most relaxed and thoughtful creation in years. (English dialogue, Hebrew subtitles. Parental guidance strongly suggested.)

*** CRIMSON TIDE - The drama's primary setting is the interior of an American nuclear submarine, where the crusty captain (Gene Hackman) and his thoughtful young second-in-command (Denzel Washington) vie for control of the crew and the deadly warheads. (English dialogue, Hebrew subtitles. Parental guidance strongly advised.)

*** DEATH AND THE MAIDEN - The most interesting bad movie of the year, Roman Polanski's film is based on Chilean exile Ariel Dorfman's nervous chamber drama about a victim of police torture (Gisborne Weaver) who confronts the man (Ben Kingsley) she believes raped and brutalized her, years before. Weaver's bearing is so horsey and all-American that her rages seem profoundly personal, almost hormonal. (English dialogue, Hebrew subtitles. Not recommended for children.)

*** DUMB AND DUMBER - Though it's hard to make cinema for the subtitle of a film whose jokes center around such stuff as extra-strength laxatives and dead parakeets, the creators of this Jim Carrey vehicle at least grasp the concept of irony. (English dialogue, Hebrew subtitles. Parental guidance suggested.)

movie is designed for buffs of catastrophe, eccentricity and Edward D. Wood Jr., the man considered by many to be the worst film director of all time. Burton and screenwriters Scott Alexander and Larry Karaszewski glorify Wood's badness itself, holding it up as evidence of his creative gusto. With Johnny Depp hamming absurdly as Wood and Martin Landau as a poignantly doped-up Bolla Lugosi. (English dialogue, Hebrew subtitles. Parental guidance suggested.)

*** I.Q. - No question, the idea of Albert Einstein playing pookish matchmaker for his brainy mathematician niece and a cheerful auto mechanic is implausible and almost unbearably stupid. But the film's goofy charm kicks right in with the cast list. Walter Matthau as Albert Einstein! The role of the Nobel Prize winner suits the actor - to a T. (English dialogue, Hebrew subtitles. Parental guidance suggested.)

*** 1/2 JUST CAUSE - With its characters, situation and Southern-gothic setting on loan from high-moral standbys like To Kill a Mockingbird and Intruder in the Dust, the first half of this Arne Glimcher movie tells the straight-ahead story of a poor young black man, accused of a crime he did not commit. The second half is about something else altogether. With Sean Connery and Lawrence Fishburne. (English dialogue, Hebrew subtitles. Children under 17 not admitted without an adult.)

*** LEGENDS OF THE FALL - A sprawling family saga set on a ranch in Montana around the time of the First World War, Edward Zwick's movie is trash, just the sort of self-indulgently lush, mythic trash that can burrow its way deep into one's brain and refuse to budge. Three brothers - among them horny surfer-boy Brad Pitt - share a woman, several battles, many accidents, deaths and shoot-outs. (English dialogue, Hebrew subtitles. Children under 17 not admitted without an adult.)

*** MILK MONEY - An amazingly easygoing comedy about a coddly 12-year-old who arranges a match between his widower father and a voluptuous prostitute. (English dialogue, Hebrew subtitles. Parental guidance very strongly advised.)

*** MURDER IN THE FIRST - After three years in solitary confinement, an Alcatraz prisoner (Kevin Bacon) eludes a fellow inmate to death. He seems a shoelace for the gas chamber until a cocky young lawyer (Christian Slater) decides to put the prison itself on trial for torture. (English dialogue, Hebrew subtitles. Children under 17 not admitted without an adult.)

*** NELL - Dubbed "Bride of Gump" in the American press, Michael Apted's film about a full-grown wild child (Jodie Foster) discovered in the backwoods of Appalachia is the latest and arguably the least subtle in a string of recent movies that confuse nostalgia for a simple past with mental limitation. (English dialogue, Hebrew subtitles. Parental guidance suggested.)

*** NOBODY'S FOOL - Paul Newman plays a cranky construction worker with a bum knee and a bum personal history. (English dialogue, Hebrew subtitles. Not recommended for children.)

*** OUTBREAK - Fast-paced, smart, and camp as a thriller could be, Wolfgang Petersen's film packs the same soapy, funny punch of an old-fashioned horror movie. Dustin Hoffman stomps and fumes as a principled army doctor determined to beat a killer virus. (English dialogue, Hebrew subtitles. Children under 17 not admitted without an adult.)

*** POCAHONTAS - Ostensibly based on a true story, Walt Disney's latest animated musical is set at the beginning of the 17th century. It tells the tale of a pretty young Native American woman who falls in love with John Smith, an English settler to Jamestown, Virginia. As the two get to know each other better, they attempt to mediate between their different cultural backgrounds and, ultimately, between their warring people. Good intentions aside, the film is saccharine and annoying. (The movie exists in two versions: one with English dialogue and Hebrew subtitles; one with Hebrew dialogue. General audiences.)

*** THE QUICK AND THE DEAD - Sharon Stone doesn't act in Sam Raimi's darkly stylized Western; she poses. It's her most vain and mannered performance to date. (English dialogue, Hebrew subtitles. Parental guidance very strongly advised.)

*** RICHIE RICH - Kids are bound to like this movie because it's full of neat gadgets like the robo-bee, a remote-control stinging critter. Based on the Harvey Comics series about the miniature billionaire Richie Rich, the film also features real-life rich boy Macaulay Culkin, reigning culture hero of the under-10 set. (English dialogue, Hebrew subtitles. General audiences.)

*** ROB ROY - Along with the biographical nifty-gritty that screenwriter Alan Sharp has dutifully, and often floridly, transcribed from the real life of Scottish folk hero Robert Roy MacGregor, a random sampling of inspirational trulisms are also on hand to spice things up a bit. These approximate how Scarlett O'Hara might have sounded if she'd spoken with a brogue, traded in her hoopskirt for a tartan kilt, and been played by Liam Neeson. With fine performances by Jessica Lange and Tim Roth. (English dialogue, Hebrew subtitles. Children under 17 not admitted without an adult.)

*** 1/2 THE SHAWSHANK REDEMPTION - This deliberate picture about suffering and belief is set almost entirely within the gray confines of a maximum-security jail. Watching it, one begins to comprehend more fully the notion of hard labor. Starring Tim Robbins and Morgan Freeman. (English dialogue, Hebrew subtitles. Parental guidance strongly advised.)

*** THE SNAPPER - Stephen Frears's The Snapper is that rare entity, a genuinely sweet film about people with real teeth and real skin. The Curley family - dad, mom, six rowdy kids and a dog - also have their share of real problems. (English dialogue, Hebrew subtitles. Parental guidance suggested.)

*** STARGLATE - Ronald Emmertich's Variation on a Theme by George Lucas is so slack, so drab, so utterly devoid of meaning and inspiration, that active attempts to block the film's unique particulars are unnecessary. (English dialogue, Hebrew subtitles. Parental guidance suggested.)

*** STREETFIGHTER - This morose exercise in casual detonation is based on a video game and features Jean-Claude van Damme as a strawberry blond windup thug who commands the Allied troops in a fictional Southeast Asian republic called Shadaloo. (English dialogue, Hebrew subtitles. Parental guidance very strongly advised.)

*** WHILE YOU WERE SLEEPING - Perhaps it's foolish to demand surprise from a modern romantic comedy. Still, it seems a sad day for audiences when a movie doesn't even bother with the faintest pretense of heightened expectation. Sandra Bullock stars as a lonely transit worker who saves her crush (Peter Gallagher) from an oncoming train and then, while he's in a coma, falls in love with his brother (Bill Pullman). The film does have its occasional sweetness, though it is on the greeningboard level. (English dialogue, Hebrew subtitles. Parental guidance suggested.)

POSTER

JULY 14 - JULY 20 1995

THEATER

All shows are in Hebrew except those marked with a star. Times are p.m. unless otherwise stated.

JERUSALEM

THE CARACAL - Portrayal of a lonely woman looking for love and happiness. (The Khan, Thurs., 8:30)
THE DWARF - Eric Sapi's adaptation of the Paer Lagerquist story about an angry dwarf who wants to fight all evil through evil. Solo performance by Yehuda Almagor. (The Khan, Mon., 8:30)
POLLARD - THE PATRIOTS - Story by Motti Lerner about Jonathan Pollard. Possibly compelling as political propaganda. Flashy, last-minute scenario works as animated documentary, though fragmented as drama. Some good acting but pretentious and quick-to-mosaic of historic heroics falls short of any promise of a great play. (Jerusalem Theater, Tues. and Wed., 8:30)
WHITE NIGHTS - Original play based on the life of Dostoevsky. (Habima, 4 Yeha Harutzim, Sat., 9)

TEL AVIV AREA

AUTOSTRADA - The story of two Israeli couples in search of happiness, success and wealth. (Old Jaffa, Hasimta, tonight, 10; Thurs., 9)
THE HOUSE MOTHER - Adaptation of the Jaroslav Hasek novel. (Habima, Sat., 8; Sun., 8:30)
THE CARACAL - See item. (Ramat Gan, Theater, Sat., 8:15)
CHILD'S PLAY - Two newcomers to Tel Aviv are let down by what the big city has to offer until they meet up with Mr. Success. With Dorit Nital, Tamar and Charming. (Old Jaffa, Hasimta, Sat., 9 & 9:15)
CYPRUS - Israeli play about a couple going through a divorce. (ZOA House, Sat., 9)

DEATH AND THE MAIDEN - Deals with the sexual violence perpetrated on a woman political prisoner in the days of military dictatorship in Chile. Strong drama, sensitive ensemble playing, hampered by problematic set. (Habima, Wed. and Thurs., 8:30)
THE DRESS - Written and acted by Sara Cohen. About the lives of three generations of women. TheaterNetto 1994. (Tzavta 2, Wed., 9)
THE FALL - One-man play based on Camus's novel. (Old Jaffa, Hasimta, Sat., 8:30)
FILUMENA - A low-key take-off on Italian temperament and humor, enlivened by a few flashes of authentic brio. (Eretz Yisrael Museum, Wed. and Thurs., 8:30)
FREESTYLE MURDER - Three actors tell the same story in different styles. (Rosen Auditorium, tonight, 10)
HAMETZ - Bleak look at what Israel has become. A powerful play, superbly directed and acted by an all-star cast, spoils promise of a Renaissance of great Hebrew theater. One of the most outstanding dramas to have hit our stage in years. (Netyana, Helchal Hatarbut, Sat. and Sun., 8)
HAPPY DAYS - Studio Thy 81 - Theater Miriam adaptation of Samuel Beckett's play. In English. (Bikural Hailim, 6 Heftman, 5:30 & 6:15/8:15)
THE HOMECOMING - Harold Pinter play. Camerit workshop for young directors. An example of highly accomplished acting and directing. (Tzavta, Mon., 8:30)
THE HOUSE MOTHER - A mother and her grown-up daughter resort to emotional blackmail. One of the best plays of the season. (Eretz Yisrael Museum, tonight, 9:30; Sat., 9)
THE IDIOT - Geshar Theater's version of the play by Dostoevsky. (Jaffa, Geshar Theater, Sat., 9 & 5:12/8:12)
INDEPENDENCE - Brother of fallen soldier is due for call-up and his parents have the option to release him. (Old Jaffa, Hasimta, tonight, 10:30; Tues., 9)

MEETING AT THE SUPERMARKET - Chance meeting between a widow and a widow leads to a relationship that is full of hope. (Old Jaffa, Hasimta, Wed., 9 & 6:28/7:28)
MISS ISRAEL - Spoof of beauty contests with a political message. (Kfar Sava, Helchal Hatarbut, Sat., 9)
ORPHANS - About two brothers and the strange connection between them and a mysterious man. A morbid, maudlin melodrama that offers a show display case for the talents of a lively, action-addicted director and two promising young actors. (Habimartel, Tues. and Wed., 8:30)
POLLARD - THE PATRIOTS - See item. (Camerit, Sat., 9; Sun., 8:30)
TOUCH WOOD - Story of soldier and friend during the Yom Kippur War. Lively declamation of a tenuous fact that intermittently grips with the sense of the soldier in action. (Tzavta, Tues., 9)
TWELVE ANGRY MEN - Courtroom drama. Marvellously designed, directed and acted, a dramatic precursor to the C.J. Simpson trial, this is a "must." (Habimartel, Sat. & Sun., Thurs., 8:30)
UNDERGROUND WATER - Written by Hillel Mittelputnik. (Yoram Levenstein Acting Studio, 6 Mikonos, today, 2:30 & 5:28/7:08)
THE VISIT - About a millionaire who returns to her hometown seeking revenge. Neither compelling as satirical social commentary nor hair-raising as Grand Guignol. Thanks to the over-extended performance of the Old Lady, falls somewhat feebly somewhere in between. (Camerit, Mon.-Thurs., 8:30)
THE WOODEN BOWL - About caring for an aging parent. (Habimartel, Mon. and Tues., 8:30 & 29/6:17)
YEINTEL - A monodrama. In English. Studio Thy 81 adaptation of Isaac Bashevis Singer's short story. (Bikural Hailim, 6 Heftman, Tues., 8:30 & 6:58/7:58)

HAIFA

CONVERSATIONS WITH MY FATHER - Amusing play about a Jewish family trying to make it in America. A touching Jewish-American drama ruined by incongruous acting and awkward directing. (Theater, Mon., 8:30)

BEERSHEBA AND SOUTH

THE LIME WORKS - About a man imprisoned in a tortured mind and difficult marriage. An upstaged protagonist chills this overworked avant-garde production with his sinister mannerisms. (Beersheba, Theater, Sat., 9)
A SIMPLETON TO DINNER - Comedy. Smerly dressed against a posh Parisian interior, six sophisticated players excel in this light French boulevardier piece in some excruciatingly funny sequences. (Beersheba, Wed., 8:30)
THE TIGER - TheaterNetto 1994. (Beersheba, Thurs., 8:30)

OTHER LOCALES

MUHAMMAD MENDEL - About a boy's encounter with an Arab refugee and a Holocaust survivor. (Kfar Menachem, Sun., 8:30)

Please note: All material for listing in The Poster should arrive in writing at the Jerusalem Post offices no later than midday on Sunday prior to publication date.
 Critic's appraisal by Naomi Dougal.
 Poster pages compiled by Judith Fattal.

CHANNEL SURFING

Reality bites: Hugh's sorry now?

Penny Starr

I despise myself for doing it. But during those odd half hours when there's nothing else to watch or I'm waiting for a show to come on, I can't help it. Watching Entertainment Tonight is like reading the National Enquirer when you have a subscription to the New Yorker and the Economist.

Yes, I'm ashamed of my habit and I know it's bad for me. For those in-between times I could always zap in on something more intelligent on the Discovery Channel or any of the satellite news stations. But I don't.

Worse still, ET hardly gives you any new news. You've already heard most of it, and the other stuff is speculation and waffle. But the teasers on ET are so enticing, you have to stay tuned. Why is Brad Pitt the $8 million man? Who was Michael Jackson's first choice for a bride? Does Britain's Prozac Princess hit the vodka bottle to face the public?

On the subject of Hugh Grant, ET (Tuesday, Star Plus, 4:30 p.m.) showed shots of Grant having breakfast in his garden alone, holding his head in his hands. If I was being spied on in my own garden, I'd be looking miserable too.

The media have been having a field day with the sordid story of Grant's lewd conduct in a car with a hooker in Hollywood. We've seen Grant's girlfriend Elizabeth Hurley looking absolutely fabulous as she steps out unaccompanied for more Essex LAuder promos, but she seems to be photographed with him.

We've heard the apologies, we've seen the mug shots, we've even watched the delivery of the Other Bed to the Grant-Hurley household, the implication being that they're not sleeping together anymore. And while his world is being turned upside down, he has to go out and talk shows to explain his behavior and try to do some damage control. This week we got him on Larry King and Jay Leno. Poor old Hugh.

As an introduction to the item, ET played that schmaltzy old song Who's Sorry Now? As in 'Friends' may be formulaic - with its singles doing the twentysomething thing - but it's well written.

"Hugh's sorry now." Ha ha, guys. Now leave him alone. Probably the only reason they're dragging the story out is lagging interest in the OJ trial. TV execs are looking for another celebrity scandal to boost ratings.

I WONDER how the Carnet Quintet (Channel 1, Tuesday, 9 p.m.) is faring in the ratings. When people talk about local comedy shows, they often mention the Carnet Quintet and Comedy Store (Channel 2, Monday, 8:45 p.m.) in the same breath. There is no comparison. While Comedy Store antics remind me of an end-of-term revue and make me giggle, the Carnet Quintet makes me smile and think.

The five stars of the show don't just fool around, they act. They become real, if ridiculous, characters. When Rami Hovavberger did his monologue as the taxi driver with an opinion about everything ("I don't think it was okay that Uri Zohar became religious"), he talked and moved like half the taxi drivers you've met.

The guy on reserve duty picked his toes and sniffed his socks while he was talking. Disgusting maybe, but that's what people do.

The funniest skit this week was the Mabat scene with Hovavberger impersonating anchor Haim Yavin, complete with slicked-back hair and square glasses. Menashe Noy played a pushy young director, telling "Yavin" to put more expression into his reading (significant pauses, raised eyebrows, warmth in the voice) to increase ratings.

"Yavin" found it all very difficult and different from his matter-of-fact way of presenting the news. The director asks if he's new.

"No, I've been here 30 years," he replies.

That says a lot about Channel 1 and the Israel Broadcasting Authority. It also made me wonder whether the Carnet Quintet is having problems, especially since the program finished five minutes early. After all that fuss about their fabulously well-paying contract, I felt cheated to be given two minutes of promos and an Izhar Ashdot song as a filler.

STAR PLUS has an interesting new filler. Several photographs of tigers flash on the screen, and then a voice-over says: "You have just seen all the wild tigers there are in the world."

All of them? And every day there are two less? I'm not a big animal-rights person - I don't know much about saving the whales or preserving wildlife. But those photos of tigers yawning and drinking water and just sitting with their striped backs to the camera got to you, and then you learn that that's it for tigers, the end of the line, unless something is done.

THE FAMILY Channel has been promoting Friends as the second-most-popular show in America (Seinfeld being No. 1). This week was the third show of the series, they're over any bumpy beginnings and they've settled into form. Fine form. Formulaic perhaps - six good-looking singles, three men, three women, doing the twentysomething thing of watching TV, dating and hanging out - but well written.

This week began with an explanation of dating language. "We must do this again some time" means you'll never see him naked. "It's not you..." means it is. "I think we should see other people" - I already am.

To reach the twentysomething viewers, there are plenty of appropriate cultural references, mainly related to television. When Monica brings home new boyfriend Alan, they adore him because of his David Hasselhoff impersonation. When he helps them win the softball game, he's like that Bugs Bunny cartoon in which Bugs plays every character. "On first base: Alan, on second: Alan..."

The action, though, is decidedly Seinfeld. They sit around, they talk a lot, they visit each other, they hang out in a coffee bar. Nothing much happens.

It's a cutey clever in a macro, Murphy-ish way (as opposed to being Seinfeld idiosyncratic and micro). "We are all like this," rather than, "Only I am like this." I like it.

Thursday 20

Ten years on, a group of college friends and their spouses reunite at an English country house in 'Peter's Friends' at 9:35 p.m. on the Family Channel.

Suspect (1987), Channel 2, 21:20
A public defense lawyer (Charl) battles for the rights of a dead-down-and-out murder suspect. She receives unexpected help from one of the jurors (Dennis Quaid). With Liam Neeson (121 mins).

Peter's Friends (1982), Family Channel, 21:35
A sort of British Big Chill, this reunion of college friends after 10 years is a charming comedy. Directed by and starring Kenneth Branagh, his wife Emma Thompson, her mother Phyllida Law (who plays the housekeeper), their friends Stephen Fry and Hugh Laurie, and comedian Rita Rudnik, who co-wrote it with her husband Martin Bergman (97 mins).

High Society (1956), ITV 3, 22:00
Starring Bing Crosby, Grace Kelly, Frank Sinatra and Louis Armstrong. With Cole Porter numbers (107 mins).
